A Splendid Private Lecture and Advice to Men.

Things All Men should know, but Too often do not.

Special Dispatch from Boston.

Dr. Greene's lectures are always inspiring.

They proclaim a new gospel of hope to suffering humanity.

And in this particular his lecture in Music Hall, Boston, Mass., surpasses them all.

It was a lecture of faith and promise; and of incalculable value to the thousands of men struggling in our land of fast living, tremendous activities and ruinous nervous tension.

One has but to look into our daily walks, with only the commonest opportunities for observation, and one is quickened, to detect the hapless victims of this nervous pressure.

The young men, with fields of promise before them rich in opportunity, are unable to stand the race and ruin and waste of the middle life, who have reached the middle of life, who have reached the middle of life, who have reached the middle of life.

They are found among those advanced in years who should have reached the high goal of life, but who have been so long pressed, but who sigh, alas! too late for which they regret themselves.

What pitiable objects these, that thus mar the triumphs of our American life! Spending without its bloom, summer, winter, spring, autumn, and then, alas! the bare, cold, and barren years of old age.

Many causes are capable of creating this condition of nervous exhaustion.
